

Ring Out the Old, Ring in the New.

Another year with its sorrows and joys, its temptations and victories, is about to be numbered with the things of the dreamy past, and we shall once be ushered into a new year, whose mysteries lie before us to be slowly unfolded by the steady march of time. Eminent this is a season of sober thought and retrospection, and wise is that man who can, by the lessons of the past, add to his profit in the future. We have seen how poorly our firm resolves and the bright new leaf that we intended and started to turn just a year ago, have been kept, but it is still left to us, to "resolve and re-resolve," and see that we do not do the same, by striving harder than ever to keep the good intentions that are sure to be made as regularly as this season of the year rolls around.

Though we have prospered as a nation and as a people have many things for which to be thankful, the year 1878, has been a most remarkable one and to thousands of hearts and families, a sad one. In our bright and sunny South, the dark pall of pestilence hung for many days—and twenty thousand people fell the victims of the yellow scourge, desolating the land, creating unnumbered woe and consternation, and causing a loss to the country of millions of dollars, and one that it will take years to regain. The tempests and storms on land have been severe and the number greater than was ever known in any previous year, and the casualties at sea have been numerous and fatal in the extreme. In portions of the Old World, famines, the most horrible, have swept the people from the earth by the thousands, while the Russo-Turkish war has hurled many an unprepared soul in the presence of its Maker.

On the other hand, however, the people of the United States have many causes of congratulation. The tithe of the soil have been rewarded with abundant yields and the return from crops was enough to bring prosperity to the country, but for a ruinous financial legislation that forced thousands of business men into bankruptcy and ruin. But let us hope that the crisis has passed and that the year 1879, will bring to the country a peace, a prosperity, and a brotherly love, unknown in the history of the past, and as permanent as great.

We have much to hope for in the future. For the first time in eighteen years, the glorious Democratic party assumes control of both Houses of Congress, and the wise legislation that is expected of it, whereby "equal rights" will be guaranteed to all, with exclusive privileges to none, is destined to restore this country to that state that for sixty years made it the most prosperous that the sun ever shone upon. We hope to see on the return of this season, a re-united people, all laboring for the common good of the country, and that such warriors as a "Solid South," or a "Solid North," will have vanished, to disturb the body-politic no more, forever.

And now, dear readers, as we wish each of you a heartfelt happy New Year, with many joyous returns of the day, we thank you for the liberal and increased patronage you have bestowed on us during the year, and promise that we shall use our utmost exertions to make the INTERIOR JOURNAL, in every way, more worthy of your good will, with each issue during 1879.

BAYARD TAYLOR, United States Minister to the Court of Berlin, died a few days ago of an affection of the liver, aged 54. Starting life as a printer's devil, he steadily worked himself up to a high position in the literary world, both as an author and as a writer of poetry. His funeral was attended by the loyalty of Germany, amid a general expression of sorrow. The remains were laid in a vault to be shortly removed to Philadelphia, Pa.

The McNett bell punch for the registry and tax of drinks of liquor in Virginia, has not proved such a bonanza for paying off the large debt as its originators were confident that it would. They estimated the increase of tax at $500,000 at least, but the figures show it to be only $33,669.14. It is said, however, that the law has not been strictly enforced, consequently, the bar-keepers have swindled the State out of large amounts.

ABE ROTHSCHILD, the Cincinnati Jew, who, it will be remembered, took his mistress from that city to the wild forests of Texas and murdered her in the most cold blooded manner, has just been found guilty of murder in the first degree by a Texas jury. The case will be appealed, but it is to be hoped that the Court of Appeals of that State is not so technical as they are in Kentucky.

BEVERLY DOWNES, one of Virginia's representatives in Congress, died in Washington last Saturday, after a short illness of inflammation of the bowels. He was a man of bright intellect and high attainments, but was a slave of the demon, drink, which served to greatly shorten his days.

The recent death of Gen. A. J. Williams, representative from Michigan, places Hon. J. C. Blackburn at the head of the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Persons who take but little interest in financial affairs, and who, therefore, read carelessly and with indifference the statements on the subject as they are published from time to time, have but a faint idea of the extent of the injuries which is being done to the people at large for the aggrandizement of a favored few. If the common people of this country—those who produce all its wealth, pay all its debts, and fight all of its battles, could truly realize how wantonly and mercilessly they are being plundered every day by their public servants for the benefit of bond-holders and bankers, who produce nothing, pay nothing and are always conveniently absent when there is a light on hand—if they could realize this in all its enormity, there would be such a storm of honest indignation coming up from every quarter as would compel these unfaithful servants to vacate the places which they so foully disgrace.

Every day brings new disclosures of the acts of favoritism to which we allude—new developments of official corruption against the people and for certain pet aristocrats. The latest exposure of this kind was effected by a resolution passed by the House of Representatives a few days since on the motion of Mr. Kelly, calling up on the Secretary of the Treasury for information respecting certain transactions between him and the National Banks in connection with the sale of Government bonds. The Secretary in his answer to that resolution admits that for the last eight months one bank in New York (the First National), has had the gratuitous use and benefit of public money to the amount of $300,000,000! This money is specie arising from the sale of Government bonds sold by that bank for the Secretary. Mr. Hewitt, who is an ardent resumptionist, a large capitalist, and whose prejudices are constantly manifested on the side of bankers, has the audacity to say that the bank has not made less than $900,000 on this arrangement, which is nearly double the entire capital of the bank! (By the way, was not $30,000,000 a good deal of cash to intrust to an institution whose capital is only $500,000?)

That, had as it looks, this is not the worst feature of this business. This money was refunded by the Secretary under the refunding act for the purpose of redeeming the 6 per cent. bonds; but instead of using the money promptly as soon as raised, he gives the bond-holders three months notice of his intention to pay off their bonds and give the banks the use of the money borrowed for that purpose until the expiration of the three months. Thus the Government is made to pay interest on two sets of bonds for three months on account of one and the same debt!

This is but a fair sample of the business conduct of that class of beings who are keeping up an eternal racket about public credit, honest dealing, good faith, &c., &c. Phaw!!

At a quiet in Breathitt. The Circuit Court is in session, and the Magistrates have met and elected a worthy successor to Judge Harnett, the murdered County Judge. The trouble is that the State troops quartered there have been unable to find a single man who admits any connection but the one or the side of law, in the recent unpleasantness.

The House of Representatives is credited with the greatest amount of work that was ever accomplished in the first three weeks of a session. Seven appropriation bills, aggregating $50,492,130 26, were passed. Four hundred and eighty-two bills were offered, of which 28 were passed, eight or nine of them having become laws.

A DEPLORABLE SCANDAL.
General Granger's Widow Married to a Bigamist.
(Washington Post.)

In well-enlightened society circles yesterday the rumor was current of a scandal likely to blast the reputation of an army officer and cover with confusion the name of a most estimable and worthy lady, in no way responsible for circumstances which can hardly fail to make this present Christmas and New Year's a very unhappy period in her existence. The facts, without any attempt at coloring or enlargement, are simply these, as understood from competent and reliable sources: Mrs. Granger, widow of the late General Gordon Granger, has been since the death of her husband, employed in the Quartermaster General's office, at a salary of $100 per month. She has also been in receipt of $20 per month pension money, and Quartermaster General having given her, by his will, $20,000, has placed her in circumstances far above want. She is still young, possessed of many personal attractions, and the suitors for her hand have been numerous. When General Granger died he was Captain of the 15th U. S. Infantry, and Lieutenant Thomas Blair was the Regimental Adjutant. Lieutenant Blair held violent views against the young widow's heart, succeeded in gaining her affections, and some four or five months ago, they were married at Santa Fe, New Mexico. (Misstate.) They were married at Lancaster, Ky., on the 17th of Sept., last, by the Rev. Mr. Bonham, of Louisville.—(Ed. Int. Jour.) Previous to this, however, Lieutenant Blair obtained leave of absence to visit Scotland on "private business," and up his sister-in-law, Mrs. Granger gave up her clerkship, left Washington and went on to Santa Fe (Lancaster) to perfect the bridal arrangements agreed upon between herself and the Lieutenant. Matters were pleasant and quiet enough for a short time, but just now an investigation is going on at the War Department which has a decided tendency to overcloud Mrs. Granger's dream of happiness and peace. It is stated that the investigation proceeds was first lodged with Lieutenant Blair's superior officers by the Hon. Milton

Blanchard of Kentucky, and that it is the effect that Lieutenant Blair is guilty of bigamy, having had a lawful wife and children in Scotland at the time of his marriage with Mrs. Granger. It is also stated that the proofs of this marriage are regular, complete, and now in possession of the War Department. Gen. Sherman, who is a warm friend of Mrs. Granger, has, it is said, written to her to come immediately home to Washington; and it is also further stated, direct steps have been taken to prosecute Lieutenant Blair criminally in the civil courts, and to organize a court-martial for his trial for conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman, with reference to his dismissal from a service which he has so thoroughly disgraced.

ROCKCASTLE COUNTY NEWS.

REMEMBER.—Remember that Elder J. L. Allen will preach at the Christian Church in this place next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

THE SAYS TO YOU AND YOURS.—A merry Christmas to the Interior Journal, from Messrs. Editor down to the chap with the sooty fingers.

SCHOOLS.—Mr. Jno. Ang. Rogers informs us that he will open a select school for boys and girls in this place on Monday, January 6th, 1879. The Mt. Vernon Male and Female Academy, J. L. Whitehead, Principal, will begin its fifth session on the same day.

JUST SO.—The small boy now makes night hideous with the popping of pyrotechnics. It's all right though, for the small boy is happy. And our observation and experience tend to convince us that there is little genuine happiness for the small boy after he passes the "fire-cracker" age.

JOHN LAYBROOK.—His school having closed, "Ketchikan's" post, J. M. Laybroke, is teaching himself away to Ketchikan, the place of his nativity, where, shades of Olla Tye, a female ruffian, and the fair creature whose wand alone can arouse the nurse of Letha.

A GOOD LUCK.—M. F. Brinkley desires all his customers to know that with the beginning of the New Year, he will cease to "charge" for any article purchased. He proposes during the year 1879, to keep a first-class stock of goods which he will sell at bottom figures for cash only, and these terms are to all, without regard to sex, sex, color, or previous condition.

ON HIS HAN EVERY TIME.—Christmas Eve was celebrated with a "turkey shooting." The crowd assembled, and a lone turkey was tied to a stake at a distance of sixty yards. After about two thousand shots had been fired and no blood drawn, the crowd gave up in disgust, and the turkey was allowed to "go on its way rejoicing." A Rockcastle marksman is only good when shooting at a man's head.

NARROW ESCAPE.—R. C. Crooks, Esq., of Pine Hill, President of the Pine Hill Coal Company, was in town Monday. He informed us that he had lately been "prospecting" for "black diamonds" in the hills of Crooked Creek, where he had found veins of coal 41 feet thick. He said the Company contemplated running a narrow-gauge railroad from Pine Hill to these rich coal fields. Should they do this, it would be an immense advantage to dwellers in that region, who would thus be enabled to transport their coal and lumber to market.

TRIALS POSTPONED.—John and Dillard Brumback, charged with grand larceny, carrying concealed weapons, and committing a breach of the peace, were brought before Judge McClure last Thursday, for trial. The plaintiff was ready, but the defendants asked a continuance, which was granted them, by consent, until January 8th, 1879. In the meantime a bond of $500 was required for their appearance, failing to give which, they were committed to jail.

The trial of Sallie Roberts, alias Reasons, the child murderer, has been fixed for the 9th of January next.

A ROMANCE.—They have had quite a romantic affair up in Scotland Cane. Two young gentlemen fell in love with one young lady. She, very like her sex, hesitated when asked to decide which she liked best. An agreement was signed, in which the lovers stipulated that each would leave the girl alone for three weeks, until she could nurse the favored one. This covenant was, of course, broken by the more passionate lover.

The two admirers met, and pistols were drawn. Blood was spilt, visible on the face of the moon for a few minutes, but the combatants were considered enough not to pull triggers until friends had time to interfere. The young lady has finally decided in favor of the White one, and we will tell the document in our next letter.

PERSONAL.—Miss Jael Rehl, a bright and lovely girl, has come into town to spend the holidays with her friends. Miss Rehl, of Pine Hill, is visiting relatives in Danville. Mrs. Dr. W. Brown and Mrs. Elizabeth Brooks, of this place, left on Tuesday's train for Richmond, where they will remain until the Christmas tide has passed. Mr. H. R. Wilmut, of Copper Creek, a prominent candidate for the Legislature, was in town on Tuesday. Mr. J. H. Brooks, a fast young fellow from Richmond, is here on a visit to his friends and relatives. Mr. J. C. Sandley, one of Stanford's most popular young gentlemen, who has been engaged here for some months in the capacity of a teacher, in which time he has managed by his good nature and commendable qualities to endear himself to many persons of both sexes—left for his home last Saturday morning, where he purposes to pass the holidays.

MIST HAD BEEN CHASED IN LOVE.—The night before Christmas—the anniversary of that night on which the Babe of Bethlehem, resting in the arms of His mother, the dark-eyed Hebrew girl, in the old stable, first opened His eyes on the sin-stricken world, which, according to prophecy and in the fullness of time, He had come to save from an eternal death. There is a merriest unbounded in the big world to-night. Children with light hearts and bright faces are romping in great glee. Parents, stern fathers, on whose faces smiles seldom find a resting place, are with cheerful countenances to-night forgetting the world with its cares and troubles. But there be those who are not happy, even though it is Christmas time. The children of poverty, who sit at pinched faces, shivering in the corner, can only dream of Santa Claus and his wondrous toys. And the dreaming but adds to the intensity of their misery. Ah, the world! the world! Oh, Fate! Oh, Fortune! Why is it we can't all be happy like this? Why is it?

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.
In justice to the character and memory of my dear son, Thomas Williams, who shot himself accidentally on last Thanksgiving day, I am led to make the following statement. I do this because I know that there are some people who believe that he shot himself accidentally while under the influence of two much liquor. This is not so, as my son was a sober, sensible, and well-to-do man at the time of the fatal accident, and this fact could be proven by several witnesses of undoubted character. I am, Sir, Yours Truly,
Thomas Williams.

A PERSON BORN.—Frank Madden, of the 1st U. S. Cavalry, and H. B. Wilmut, special agent, arrived in town Monday evening, and after a day spent in the country, Tuesday, they succeeded in "bagging" David D. Gibson, W. P. Gibson, Thomas W. Gibson, and Samuel Moore, who are charged with forgery under the Pension Laws of the United States. The Gibsons, father and son, have long been Pension Agents in this county, and it is alleged that they have stolen more than ten thousand dollars from the Government, by means of false vouchers. In many cases the pretended pensioner who drew his $8 or $12 per month, had slept peacefully beneath the sod for years. And it is said that they have prosecuted several claimants to a successful termination in cases where the claimant had "shuffled off this mortal coil" long before the declaration was filed. The Gibsons are a bad lot, and will doubtless reap the full reward of their iniquity. Thomas W. Gibson has for several years been post-master at Level Grove, and this circumstance has, doubtless, helped them materially in their nefarious transactions.

PULASKI COUNTY NEWS.
Remember.
The Jingle of sleigh bells is wafted on the breeze.
The Screen—Given to the children of the Presbyterian Sunday School was quite a success.

POOR FELLOW.—A man named Montgomery was found frozen to death near the depot, last Tuesday morning.

ANOTHER LOSS.—Through the recent failure of Snyder & Milton, of Louisville, Mr. Elia Milton and three daughters, lost $11,000.

A CHRISTMAS TREE.—And a "real" Santa Claus, at the Southern Methodist Church on Christmas Eve, gladdened the hearts of the little ones.

WILL BEHOLD.—Dr. W. Shadon has purchased the lot of Mr. Robert Gibson, the lot adjoining the new Baptist Church, and purposes building a residence thereon.

WORTHENFUL.—The 10th spoken of in B. F. R.'s riddle was translated to Pulaski soil last September, and when returned to his mountain home, strange to relate, the heart of said Crow had turned to Stone.

LAST SALES.—The J. M. Willson property, situated on Church street, was sold at auction last Court day for $250; purchased by Mrs. Bettie Willson. A term of 120 acres owned by Mr. Bryant Hutchinson, sold for $1,200. The Guggin heirs were the purchasers.

AWAY FOR THE HOLIDAYS.—Miss Nanie Perkins is spending the holidays in Fayette county. Miss Lillie Sheppard, a little beauty of South Somerset, is in Ludlow. Mr. Boyle Stone and wife, and Miss Sallie Stone, have gone to Liberty, to spend the holidays.

RELIGIOUS.—Elder M. E. Lard delivered two discourses at the Christian Church last week. Eld. J. L. Allen preached two discourses at the Christian Church last Sunday. We learn that his services for the Church here have now ceased, and he will preach for a Church in Mt. Vernon, next year.

KILLED BY THE CAR.—On Friday evening, 20th inst., the remains of a young man, named James Linn, were found mangled and bleeding upon the railroad track three miles North of town. While intoxicated he had laid down upon the track, and had fallen asleep, and the train passed over him, causing instant death.

MR. SMITH, FORMERLY OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY, a correspondent from this place to the Cincinnati Times, would lead people to believe that Somerset is in a condition of lawlessness equal to Breathitt. If the glowing and exaggerated description of a quarrel that occurred on Court day is to be credited, The difficulty promised to become a serious matter, but before sunset, the belligerent parties had dispersed to their homes and no further trouble ensued.

VICTORY.—Miss Josie Dutton, accompanied by Miss Anne Dominick, of Louisville, came down last week to visit old friends. Mr. William Morrow returned from College last week to spend the holidays at home. Mrs. John Woodcock and sons have returned to Lancaster, after a brief visit to the family of Mrs. Harriet N. Linn, accompanied by Mrs. Dora Linn. Mr. John L. Owens, who has been attending a law school in Jamestown, came home for the holidays, accompanied by Mr. Hiram Hays. Mr. Wm. J. Eades, of Wayne, is visiting relatives in the vicinity of Somerset. Mr. George Walden, of Lancaster, came down to the wedding.

TRAY OR TAKE A DUCKING.—Messrs. Wm. Reppert and Wm. Stone, two teachers of county schools, recently returned to their homes in this place, their schools having closed. The latter gentleman, who was teaching in a district near the mountains, very narrowly escaped a "ducking" on the last day of his school. The scholars had asked him to "treat" and upon meeting with a refusal, they (the boys of course) formed a triumphal procession and bore the helpless teacher to a pool, where they intended to decide whether to "treat" or take the "ducking." Suffice it to say that a handful of apples was sent for, and the gentlemen now declare that they would rather "man" rails than teach school.

MARRIAGE BELL.—Married at the residence of the bride's mother, at 9 o'clock, Tuesday, Dec. 24th, by Elder J. L. Allen, Mr. Walter R. Pettus and Miss Della Linn, both of Somerset. A more auspicious day could not have been desired than the one that witnessed the union of this noble couple. The beautiful carpet of snow that covered the earth, glistered and sparkled in the sunshine, and to many a wind the old, old adage, "Happy is the bride whom the sun shines on," very naturally came. Among the guests were a newly married couple who had very unexpectedly been married but an hour before at the residence of Mr. Robert Wilson. They were Mr. J. T. May and wife, and Miss Mollie Vickery, who had been joined in bonds of holy matrimony by Elder J. L. Allen. The two brides parted, departed toward Cincinnati on a short wedding tour, followed by the best wishes of scores of friends.

LOCAL NEWS.

THEATRE.—The Humber, again, is spending the holidays in jail in default of $500 bail. Stealing a horse from Mr. J. H. Parsons is the charge.

RECEIVED.—A man named J. M. Lyle, was run over and instantly killed by a freight train near Science Hill, on the C. & O. R. R. on Saturday last. He was lying on the track in a drunken condition, and was not alarmed in time for the Engineer to prevent the accident.

CHRISTMAS DAY.—Was one of the quietest, as well as the coldest ever experienced here. The thermometer was down to zero but the young folks didn't mind it. They took advantage of the several inches of snow, by making the air musical with the merry notes of the sleigh bells.

WITNESSES.—Our deputy post-master, Mr. A. A. Warren, is all smiles, because of the advent on Sunday last, of an 8½ pound boy. "His baby's baby, is it," said Dr. T. B. Montgomery also rejoices over a boy, which arrived on Monday. It weighed 11½ pounds and has been named, Thomas Bell.

APPEAL.—The Court of Appeals has affirmed the sentence of Joe Hocker to the penitentiary for one year for hog stealing. Joe is a colored gentleman, lately of this county, and because of the smallness of his offense the Court was unwilling to interfere. If he had murdered a man, though he would have gotten a new trial.

THE WEATHER.—The cold of the intensely cold weather, was reached on Wednesday morning, the thermometer at sun rise registering 3 degrees below zero. The ice getters were happy in their harvest, and many of them filled their houses with ice 3 or 4 inches thick. It will be cheap next summer.

POOR XMAS FUN.—George Helman, a young man from the country, began his Christmas by getting drunk on the Eve before, and acting very disorderly. He was arrested and lodged in jail till next morning, when he was tried before Judge Rochester, who relieved him of $8.50 in the shape of fine and costs. We hope that this will be a lesson to him as well as a warning to other young men who are accustomed to take a little too much.

NEW BUILDINGS.—Notwithstanding the hard times, Stanford continues to grow slowly, but surely. This year nine new dwelling houses, and the St. Asaph Hotel, in which there are two splendid store rooms, have been built, besides a jail, a pork packing house, and numerous other houses of less importance. Several houses are now in process of erection, and a number of people are thinking of building during the coming year.

ANXIOUS FOR A DRINK.—Philip Phillips, a colored man living near town, died on Sunday night last, from the effects, it is supposed, of drinking a remnant of whiskey from a broken bottle, in which were pieces of glass. The bottle was in Wood Lytle's stable pocket at the time it broke and at the negro's request he gave it to him. So anxious was the negro for a drink that he cared not for glass, but gulped the whiskey down and died for it in 24 hours.

NEARLY A FUROR.—But for a well administered emetic we would have had to chronicle the demise of one of our best lawyers this week. In his anxiety to get outside of a dozen raw oysters on Christmas day, he swallowed one, half salt and all, and did not discover his mistake until it reached its destination and began to double him up with pain. The emetic brought it from its hiding place, and the disgusted attorney abandoned any further attempt to see Christmas.

HOMER'S TROUBLE.—Thomas Hoise was arrested and tried this week for obstructing the public highway 190 yards, and acquitted. He was then arrested on a charge of maliciously wounding Thomas Blackley, and examined before Esquire Carson and Burton, who held him in answer for wounding in sudden heat and passion. He demanded a trial at once before the Quarterly Court, and the Jury rendered a verdict of $50 fine, from which he appealed to the Circuit Court.

TWENTY-ONE FROM UNNATURAL CAUSES.—In looking over our file for 1918, we find that we have during the year, recorded the deaths of seventy-seven white persons in this county, about fifty-six died from natural causes, 2 were murdered, 1 was accidentally shot by others, 1 accidentally shot himself, 2 committed suicide, 3 were killed by lightning, 2 by the explosion of a saw-mill boiler, 1 was run over by the cars, 1 died of neglect, 1 from sunstroke, 1 was scalded and 1 drowned.

THIS IS A FACT.—Since our last issue we have noticed that many of our readers took our advice, and went, as they should have done, to Hayden Brothers' store and laid in a supply of substantial Christmas presents for children, friends, etc. This is better than to expend money for toys and other things that have no real value. A suit of warm clothes, a nice dress, a pair of boots, or any article for wear, is far preferable to such things. The Hayden store will fill all their needs, at almost actual cost.

TIMELY NEWS.—Many of the handsome presents on the Christmas Tree last Wednesday night came from Jim Davis' great-grandson, and he has still on hand, hundreds more of the same kind. We would advise our friends to get Mr. Davis a call now, and he will induce you to buy your presents from him. His store is a fair price that Albin might envy, and his good things to eat would tempt the appetite of all who love delicious eatables. Call early and get first choice at your own prices.

CHRISTMAS TREE.—Although particularly intended for its own Sunday School scholars, each of whom was well cared for at the Christmas Tree at the Methodist Church, was far from being confined to that school alone, but was heartily enjoyed by every child in town and nearly every grown person too. The tree was very large, and adorned with 500 or 600 presents, presented a sight of intense beauty to the little ones, and did credit to the taste of the ladies and gentlemen who arranged it. Many of the presents were handsome and costly, but the special beauty of the occasion was that, as far as we could see, every person in the house was the recipient of something of more or less value. Every thing passed off in a most orderly and pleasant manner, and the originators of the tree can feel that they have been ten-fold repaid for their trouble by giving joy to hundreds of little hearts who will remember with pleasure the event long after their owners will have become the men and women of the land.

THEATRE.—Fourteen adults and four children were buried in the Buffalo Cemetery this year, against 14 adults and 2 children in 1917, and 17 adults and 17 children in 1916. So we are informed by Mr. J. M. Hendricks, the keeper of the Cemetery.

READ THIS FIRST.—We are in the midst of the gay and happy Christmas days, and Winter is upon us in earnest. Those who are comfortably clad have nothing to fear from the winds blast. Those who are not should at once go to Hayden Brothers' store, as they have concluded to offer during the holidays, every thing in the way of wearing apparel, for either male or female, old or young, at a large discount, by way of a Christmas gift to their many friends and patrons. They will surprise you with low prices.

MARRIAGES.

THESE was a triple wedding at one of our colored Churches last night.

135.—During the year, one hundred and three white and thirty-two colored couples were married in this county.

BURTON-CAMDEN.—On Christmas Eve, Mr. Alvin J. Burton and Miss Nellie J. Camden, both of this county, were made one flesh.

HANNA-GAY.—In Woodford county, on the 26th, Mr. John L. Hanna, of Shelby county, and Miss Bettie Gay, a young lady well known here, were united in marriage.

KING-THURMOND.—Last evening, Miss Emma L. Thurmond, the handsome daughter of Mr. J. L. Thurmond, was married to Mr. Archibald E. King, a worthy young gentleman of Trimble county.

FRYE-JONES.—At the residence of the bride's father, Col. D. S. Jones, at McKinney, on the 26th, Mr. John C. Fyre and Miss Loretta J. Jones were united in matrimony. Miss Jones is said to be as accomplished as she is handsome and attractive, and Mr. Fyre is to be congratulated for having won such a prize.

LAND, STOCK AND CROP ITEMS.

A TEXAS cattle king presented his slaughtering on his wedding day with 80,000 head of cattle.

J. H. Swope returned from Alabama, Wednesday. He disposed of his mules at remunerative prices.

J. M. Maxwell, of Tennessee, sold to Best & Lawson, of Harard, 44 head 3 and 4-year-old scrub cattle, at $20 per head.

A Fayette county man says he has made more in the last two years on 5000 head of sheep, than on $5,000 invested in cattle.

A gang of men in Morrison & Co's. packing house, Cincinnati, killed and cut up one day last week, 3,544 hogs, averaging 250 pounds weight.

H. T. Bush, auctioneer, sold for Peter T. Phelps, in Madison county, on Tuesday last, 50 cattle, weighing from 600 to 1,000 pounds, at 2½ to 3½.

J. E. Farris has recently purchased of W. Shelby Wilson, of Shelbyville, Ky., a finely pedigreed Berkshire hog. This is a fine chance for persons to improve their stock of hogs.

W. D. Sutherland weighed Saturday to Offutt & Brown, 30 cattle, averaging 1,740 pounds, at $4.87 per cent. This is the champion hog raised in the county this season for weight and quality. (Winchester Democrat.)

Dr. Jennings Price, Master Commissioner of General Common Pleas Court, sold last Monday, a tract of 80 acres 15 poles to H. T. Noel and Judge Wm. McKee Duncan, at $23.70 per acre, and another tract for $10 per acre.

At a sale in Jessamine last week, dry cows sold for $46 per head; two-year-old steers, $22.50; 2-year-old heifers, $36.25; 3-year-old mules, $11.50; 2-year-old mules, $17.50; yearling do, $23.50; and corn $1.75 per bushel, in the crib.

The following prices were obtained at a sale in Montgomery county: Two-year-old mules, $45.25; mule cows, $25; long yearling cattle, $25.60; saddle horse, $135; other horses very high; suckling calves, $19.80; six stock-hay, $11.10 per stack.

LOUISVILLE.—Good cattle are in demand, but poor grades are sold slowly. Good lot extra shippers, $3 to 4½; best butchers, 3 to 3½; thin and rough, to medium, 1 to 2½. The hog market is weak, with sales of top at $2.80, fair to good, $2.50 to $2.40; common to good light, $2 to $2.40; Extra sheep, $3 to 4; medium to medium 1½ to 2 cents.

The Tuscarora (N.Y.) Times heard a farmer the other day counting up the profit in a bale of cotton he had just sold. He sold at 14½ cents, and received $32.50 for the bale. He deducted $4 for picking, $1.50 for ginning and packing, $1 for handling and 8 cents per pound for cultivation, making $30, and found that the single bale had brought him just $10 in debt.

LINCOLN COUNTY NEWS.

Hunterville.

CONWAY.—Is now fully open and prepared to compete with any, as to quality of stock, or liberality in prices.

THE SATURDAY JUBILEE.—Last night, was expressive of a bright celebration of the "jubilee" in commemoration of the "day we celebrate."

ALL HARRY.—In the unprecedented throng at W. H. Smith & Co's. on Tuesday, no one was injured. All went away smiling, bearing their purchases with them.

THE PLACE.—Candidates for matrimony are directed to Pat Conway's—gentlemen, for suits warranted to kill—ladies, for an outfit that would render angels more angelic.

A HAPPY THOUGHT.—The legislators are carrying this morning upon the crystal covering of the classic Hanging Rock. By the way, this stream must have won its cognomen before our juries learned to hang.

ACCIDENT INSURANCE BUREAU.—A Yankee speculator noticing the constant pressure to place at W. H. Smith & Co's. proposed to utilize the thing by organizing an "Accident Insurance Bureau." But it wouldn't take. The people knew they were safe and kindly ran for there.

HARTFORD MERCHANTS.—In the absence of news, and as it is a season for the expression of good will, and as we feel a little vain of our citizens, who will tolerate a dish of our mercantile force it is morning. First then, we have addressing itself to the crying needs of the inner man, a restaurant inaugurated by Messrs. Dyer & Horn, and to be conducted—merrily—standing the cautious juxtaposition of nature—on strictly temperance principles.

As a compensatory arrangement we have a two-day store, in one of which Dr. W. S. Dyer & Son, aided at present by R. G. Dyer, prepare and distribute the weapons sufficient to contend against nearly all "the little that flesh is heir to." The other is conducted by G. F. Pascoe, surrounded by a brilliant staff, consisting of J. M. Cooper, O. B. Cooper and Will Hocker—with "Boss" Alex, as a constant. In dry goods, Conant & Rose, aided by "Thompson" Cooper; Pat Conway, backed by J. M. Cook and R. W. Bradley; See Owens, who is alone at present, and W. H. M. & Co., under charge of J. B. Green, who is seconded by Will Handfield, Billy Williams, J. P. Gooch and Robt. Green, with Tom Kierhen Peyton, (envy extraordinary for the colored persuasion,) all wise-awake, all attentive to business—disperse their wares in a style worthy of all commendation. The Huntsville branch of W. H. R. & Co. has recently been put in the charge of the accomplished salesman, J. B. Green, in whose hands we predict for a continuance of its popularity. Now, Mr. Editor, we contend that this is an exceedingly respectable exhibit for a small town without a tunnel. The amount of business done by the houses named, is simply astonishing. The writer has known the place for more than 30 years, and at no time within that period has there been a large supply of goods, or as lively a run of custom as at present. I am satisfied that our increased trade is in great measure due to the wise policy of our merchants in telling the people through the columns of the Danville Advocate and Interior Journal what they have, and why they have it.

TOWN OF CLOTH.

ANTHONY SALT.—Of clothing, dry goods and notions, have Friday and Saturday, the 25th and 26th inst., R. F. Reynolds, Auctioneer.

MURKIN.—Sam Cery having resigned his position as trustee, the Board, at its last meeting appointed W. T. Corn to fill the vacancy, and also elected him to the position of Chairman of the Board.

A LIVELY POLICE COURT.—Next Saturday promises to be a lively day in the Police Court, there being some dozen or more warrants returned for trial on that day, all civil cases. A general settling up of the old year's account.

PERSONAL.—Mr. Arvel Dillion and lady are spending Christmas week with friends at Oak Orchard. Mr. A. S. Buchanan, Civil Engineer on the C. & O. R. R., located at Georgetown, was the guest of Maj. Comer, last week. Mr. Robert Frith will spend the Christmas with us, while Jerry will float in the atmosphere of Broadway. J. D. Bell is on a business trip to Lebanon.

RUNNING OFF FROM HIS DEBT.—Thos. King, aged about 40 years, with family, left us suddenly last week; between us, to the grief of all our merchants and many others with whom he had small accounts, taking this unwise plan to pay about $75 or $80 of debts. He went towards Nashville, Tenn. We hope this little act of his here may come to his notice in print, and cause him to return and make amends.

SANTA CLAUS.—The mythical shouts of the little boys, mingled with the popping of fire crackers and other pyrotechnics, the sticky hands and sweet lips of the little girls, all give evidence that, notwithstanding the extreme cold night, Old Santa Claus did not forget them, but through frost and snow, over hill and dale, through wood and dell, plodded on, on his mission of love, till every good little girl and boy had received something to make them happy, from his exhaustless store.

TEMPERANCE.—The cold stormy weather, or something else, caused Mr. Demaree to fall to come to time with his appointment here last Monday night. But fortunately for those who were anxious to hear something said on the temperance question, here, W. M. Reed and C. J. McKinney, very opportunely appeared upon the stage and both made appropriate remarks upon the subject, which we trust may be a "head cap" upon the water." Brother McKinney's recitation of the deathbed scene of the drunkard in the last agonies of that terrible state, delirium tremens, was truly affecting in the extreme, and was enough to cause all who witnessed it, to resolve to do all in their power to save their fellow-beings from such blood-curdling horrors. The thanks of the audience were tendered those brethren for the efficient and interesting manner with which they filled the place of Mr. Demaree. Mr. Demaree, however, must not consider himself released from fulfilling his appointment here at some future time.

A GOOD SUGGESTION.—Mr. J. H. Stafford, agent for Oakes & Co., Cincinnati, was in our town last week, on the look out for more stores. We would be glad to see all of our farmers availing themselves of this opportunity to get a good price for their surplus timber, of which there is vast quantities that could be spared to a two-fold advantage; that of supplying immediate wants, and clearing the land for future cultivation, the latter advantage would prove to be worth much more to them than any possible advance in the price of timber for the next fifty years to come. So, cut down your timber; sell all you can; burn the rest, and cultivate your land, and by liberally manuring; planting at the right season, and cultivating thoroughly, we will guarantee that in a few years, instead of having every thing to buy as you now do, you can have most every thing to sell. Will we do it? It will only require energy and industry, doing by good judgment, in a few years to change this comparatively unbroken wilderness to a rich field of waving grain.

And beautiful hills at pasture green.

BOYER COUNTY NEWS.

Danville.

CHRISTMAS DAY.—Was unusually quiet here.

ALAR.—The hilarious voice of the College boys is missed from the streets during the holidays.

DEATH.—Mr. J. P. Fisher, an old and valued citizen of the town, died on Saturday, 21st, and was buried Monday.

THOSE UP.—Last Friday, a worthy child about seven years of age, was frightfully burned, and died in a few hours. She attempted to do what her mother had frequently done in her presence—Kindle a fire with the aid of kerosene.

PROZEN TO DEATH.—The body of a negro man named William Moody, was found Monday, on the farm of Ben Spears, an Inquest was held and the facts elicited show that when last seen, at 11 o'clock, Saturday night, he was drunk, and it is supposed, in his course home he fell and was frozen to death.

COMMONS PLEAS COURT.—Met on the 17th Judge Breckinridge on the Bench. The only case of general interest, the suit of Mary Lincoln, by her vs. H. L. Samuels and wife, for $25,000 damages, was continued until the next term of the Court. The jury was discharged Friday, and a few Equity cases remaining undisposed of, the Court was adjourned from Saturday till the 27th.

LECTURES.—The first of a series of free lectures under the auspices of the "Society of Religious Inquiry" in connection with the Theological Seminary, was delivered in the Second Presbyterian Church, Thursday evening, by Rev. J. W. Bailey, D. D., of Sparta, Ills. The lecturer entertained his audience with a pleasing talk on the Book of Revelation, to which he had given many years of special study, and the lecture was marked throughout by ability and ingenious thought.

RELIGIOUS.—Rev. Mr. Chichester, of Columbia, S. C., delivered an interesting sermon from the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church, Sunday night. The announcement has been made that Rev. Wm. R. Henderson had accepted a call to a Church at Hopkinsville. It is understood that the Session of the Second Presbyterian Church declined to accept his resignation. In accordance with a beautiful custom of the Episcopal Church, the Chapel of Trinity Church has been decorated with evergreen and holly, commemorating the glad tidings of the nativity of Christ.

PERSONAL.—Ex-Congressman John D. White, from the Ninth District, has been spending a few days in town, the guest of Prof. and Mrs. E. S. Hitecock. Colonel Clifford Hodes slipped and fell upon the pavement last Saturday, receiving sufficient injury to confine him to his bed. Mr. Walker Fry, manager of the car department of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas R. R. at Sedalia, Mo., is on a visit to his father, Gen. S. S. Fry. He is accompanied by his lovely bride, Mrs. Miss Polk Phillips, of Austin, Texas, to whom he was married on the 17th inst. His estimable wife has bestowed her hand upon a courteous gentleman, and a successful business man. Judge F. T. Fox, Jr., of Louisville, is in town. Mr. Q. D. Vaughan and wife, Mrs. Iva Ayres, of Louisville, will spend the week in Danville.

DAYTON COUNTY NEWS.

Mentelville.

DEATH.—Wm. Russell, aged 60, died of inflammation of the stomach, Tuesday.

BORN.—On the 23d inst., to the wife of James Duncan, a boy—James Fribbie. Born, on 10th inst., to the wife of John F. West, a boy—Willie.

LOST BROKE.—Master John Jones, son of William Jones, of this vicinity, had one bone of his leg broken by his horse slipping on ice and falling on him.

ORANGE BEDS.—Married, on the 18th inst., at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Alex Daugherty, Mr. Andrew Bell to Miss Jennie Shepherd. License here issued for marriage on the 26th inst., of Mr. W. A. C. Burnett to Miss Mary J. Shearer, daughter of A. N. Shearer, Esq.

CHARIYARI.—Thomas J. Lee and Miss Isadora Lee, were married by his Honor, Judge Haynes, at the residence of Mr. Thomas Hatcher, last Friday evening. This occasion called forth quite a number of cow bells, tin pans and other harsh-toned instruments, creating much merriment for the boys, and discomfiture to the happy couple.

A CANDIDATE FOR THE PENITENTIARY.—named Matthew, living in Tennessee, came to our County Judge a few days ago, and represented that a man in indigent circumstances had just died at Mr. Andrew Young's, and that he was sent by Mr. Young to get a suit of clothes for him. The Judge gave an order to Messrs. Ramsey & Buck, who furnished the suit. It has since transpired that the dead pauper was a myth, and that the goods were appropriated by Matthews for his own use.

AFTER THE MOONSHINERS.—A Marshal's posse of fourteen men under command of Deputy Richard Burnside, are operating on the outskirts of this county and adjoining county in Tennessee. We learn that several illicit distilleries have been captured, and that the establishments of Aramp Blevins, George Bell and Ed Bolan, have been destroyed. This is the first successful raid that has been made against Blevins, notwithstanding he has been engaged in the moonshine business ever since the war.

NEW BUILDINGS IN PROSPECT.—Dr. H. A. Phillips, and Phillips & Oates have bought the lot on which the Friday Morning, December 27, 1878.

"A LILY AMONG LILIES."

She was called "Lily," partly because she was so white and fair, partly because, even in her baby days, she showed such passionate fondness for the lovely flowers that lay, in placid white and golden beauty, on the bosom of the lovely forest pool.

It lay, the quiet pool, in the heart of the dense woods, where the sun came shyly quivering down through interlacing boughs, and even the noon day air was cool, and odorless with breath of life on the breeze; the swiftly flowing river made it, by a sudden sweep and pause, coming, all at once, upon a deep, wide hollow in the bank; it ran in there and hid itself away, lying still and calm under the leafy shadows, as if refusing from its frail, delicate, lifeless body, to be carried to the sea.

A wild and solitary spot; so still that even the timid rabbit dared venture to rest and drink at the water's edge, and the summer silence reigned unbroken, save by the chirp of birds, and chirp and hum of insects in the waving grass.

It was on sunny afternoons the village seamstress, carrying her baby girl, and plying her needle patiently through the golden hours, while the child, securely cradled in some mossy nook beside her, played with the sweet pond lilies and laughed to the merry birds. She never weaned her.

The shifting shadows of the trees, which would try to catch and hold them with her tiny hands; the dancing sunbeams, a bright-ringed butterfly coquetting with the breezes, or grey old spider, weaving fly-traps in the grass, a squirrel; a rabbit, above all, the lily, held little spells of wonder and delight that charmed her all day long.

A delicate child, fragile and very fair, she would fall asleep in the midst of her lily treasures, and then, indeed, with blossoms all around her, she seemed so much akin to birds and bees, it was no wonder if this mother's heart ached with a sudden fear, and she cried, as she lifted her, still sleeping, to her breast.

"God spare my baby to me! My wee, white Lily, purer and sweeter than the flowers!"

A strange woman, this seamstress, proud, silent, and living alone with her lovely child, and never making a friend; and as the years rolled on, and the busy village gossip failed in their efforts to "find out all about her," it came to be generally whispered among them that Mrs. Craven, "with her high, lady ways," was probably "no better than she should be," and no doubt had excellent reasons for "keeping her tongue so still."

And she lived, among them but not of them, like a stranger, and plying her needle busily, and bore their insults silently, and knew that their children were forbidden to play with hers.

Not that Lily lost anything by this—rather the contrary. Thrown entirely upon the resources of her own graceful fancy for amusement, and having her gentle mother for sole companion and friend, she escaped the contagion of rustic vulgarity and conceit, and grew up in the solitude of the grand old woods as happy and innocent as the birds.

Sweet Lily! wilyly cunning and utterly ignorant of harm, she would sit in her favorite forest dell like a new Virginia, weaving soft fancies of the bright ideal of some day be her Paul.

This was the dangerous lesson her few books had taught her—to dream of love. Half-unconsciously to herself she sighed for such devotion as that of the fairy prince, who suffered enchantment and hideous transformation to rescue from danger the lady of his soul.

"Will any one ever love me?" her heart would say. And dreaming thus one day, her neglected work lying unheeded on the grass, while she weathed pond lilies in her golden hair, she looked so lovely in her innocent grace to the world-worn eyes of one who had penetrated to the lovely spot unseen, that he exclaimed, aloud, in admiration:

"How beautiful!"

Started, she turned, as if about to fly, but he stopped her, saying:

"Do not go; it is I who am intruding. Only say that you forgive me for alarming you, and I will go this moment."

She glanced up at him with shy curiosity, too simply innocent to think of fear.

"There is nothing to forgive," she answered, simply; "only no one ever comes here but me, and—and you startled me."

"I am so sorry! I'm so sorry," she said, with a wailing laugh. "I took you for a wood-nymph at first sight, rather than a real woman. I am heartily glad," with a swift, admiring glance, "to find any thing so lovely, so substantial. You won't vanish into thin air, sweet vision, will you, if I venture to remain awhile? I am an artist, showing a sketchbook in his hand, and should like to sketch this fairy dell, if you, its lawful queen, will permit me. How may you, gracious sovereign, may I stay?"

She uttered a little childish cry of pleasure, and opened wide in wonder, her blue eyes.

"Can you?" she cried, eagerly; "oh, how I wish you would! and may I watch you, please?" coming shyly to stand him.

The stranger looked at her with a smile of amused surprise. "Here promises to be a new experience of womanhood," thought he; then, aloud: "Most certainly you may—on one condition—you must let me sketch you, too, standing there, just as I saw you first, twisting the lilies in your hair."

"Will you?" she cried, delightfully; "oh, I should like it of all things!" and instantly throwing the lily wreath over her shining hair, she fell into an attitude of such unstudied grace that he gazed, spell-bound, in genuine admiration.

"Will this do?" she queried, looking earnestly up into his face. "Is this how you want me to stand?"

For answer, he flung the book aside, and came impetuously towards her.

"You know how enchanting you are? Whence do you come, sweet fairy? Tell me your name, dear girl?"

"My name?" she drew back, frightened at his vehemence; her lovely eyes, that had met his moment since as innocently eager as a child's, dropped suddenly, and a timid blush spread over all her face. "I am called Lily," she said, with an uneasy glance around.

The glance and tone checked him—he took up the book again, and began to sketch.

"Lily," said he, "you have been rightly named. A lily among the lilies, and sweeter and fairer than the flowers."

The summer was over and past. Autumn days were coming, and fashionable idlers were floating back to town from mountain, wood and shore. Among the rest came Harry Stanton, returning from a sketching tour among the hills, and sat by his mother's side on the day following his return, listening, with gloomy, downcast face, to her earnest words of counsel.

"To stay away from your intended bride for three whole months!" she said. "Elliot has reason to complain. What if she should break off the match?"

"I wish to Heaven she would!" he exclaimed, bitterly. "Why is your heart so set upon this marriage, mother?"

"Why?" Mrs. Stanton looked at her son with displeased surprise. "Do you need to ask that question? Do not your prospects in life depend upon it? You reared luxuriously, expensive in your habits, deeply in debt, and without personal means—what have you to look forward to if Elliot's fortune fails you? And what is this change in you? Before you went away you were eager enough to form this engagement—why are you different now?"

"No matter," he replied, with a deep and bitter sigh, "since what I have done can not now be undone, I am bound in honor to Elliot, as you say, and for every reason I must marry her. Would to God it could be otherwise! but that's too late!"

And rising moodily, and walking to the window, he stood there looking out.

His mother watched him silently, full of anxious fear.

"He has become entangled in some folly," she thought. "I must hasten his marriage with Elliot, or he will be guilty of some wild absurdity and ruin all my plans."

And Harry Stanton, gazing out into the street, saw nothing that passed before him, for his thoughts were elsewhere. Young, and gay, and handsome, self-indulgent and impatient of control, the world—though it had somewhat spoiled—had not hardened him, and his heart had not been awakened in his own despite, not easily to be lulled to sleep again; it smote him now with keen, remorseful pain; it craved for one—too easily won and lightly cast aside, but now, perhaps because he felt that she was lost to him, now suddenly grown most dear; he bent his head against the window pane, and mused, regretfully:

"If this time she has received my letter, poor, miserable child! what will she do or say? Would to heaven I had never seen her! Poor Lily, drenched in tears; poor blossom, crushed and flung away! God! is it I who have been such a villain? And to her—the pure—the innocent one! How will she bear the blow? I will return to her—to comfort her—to save her from herself; no, that were but more cruelly, since we must part at last! Oh, child! how sweet and fair you were when first I saw you, and now—"

And now—he groined in anguish—"what is she now?"

And still, through all the day, that thought beset him, and when night came, would not bedrive away.

"What is she now?" And now, in a vivid, dreadful dream, he saw his fears take shape, and stood more and more like the forest pool looking into its quiet depths; saw Lily's face gleam whitely from the waves—saw her slowly drifting out to sea—an awful smile upon her silent lips, and with arms outstretched towards; saw her dead—a lily among lilies—but whiter and colder than the flowers!

And Lily's dream was over.

She had lived, from the day she met
